European Energy Network

EnR: Background & Added Value

- Established in 1990, EnR is a voluntary network of 25 'national' energy agencies with responsibility for planning, management and review of national research, development, demonstration and dissemination programmes
- EnR has a rotating presidency, currently held by ADEME (French agency for ecological transition)
- EnR is at the forefront of Europe's drive to improve energy efficiency, increase the use of renewable energy and mitigate the damaging effects of climate change, ensuring this transition is just
- EnR strives to be a discussion partner for the European Commission and delivers information in an impartial, neutral way & has great convening power
